WATSON IN THE BACKGROUND

Has Not Even Hinted That he Would Like Place at Side of the President.A dispatch from Washington in the Indianapolis News last night said:

"A goodly number of Representative Watson's friends in public life are trying to persuade President-elect Taft to take the Indian into his Cabinet as Secretary of Commerce and Labor. Mr. Watson himself has not asked for any such recognition. Persons who have seen Mr. Taft recently say they do not believe there is much likelihood of Mr. Watson's getting a place. Vice-President-elect Sherman is one of the men who has been exerting influence in behalf of Mr. Watson."

"The New York Herald says in a dispatch from Washington today: 'Representative James E. Watson of Indiana may be Secretary of Commerce and Labor in the new Taft Cabinet. Confirmation of the fact that powerful influences are at work in his behalf all over the country was obtained today from a high source close to President-elect Taft.'

"It is not understood at the present time that the appointment has been decided upon, but Mr. Taft is known to have the suggestion of Mr. Watson's name under consideration, and if he can see his way clear to do so will give him the place. A conference will be held at which it is expected some definite information from Mr. Taft will be forthcoming to the friends of Mr. Watson."

THEY WANT BETTER SERVICE

Citizens of Mays Displeased With the Lake Erie Schedule.

The citizens of Mays are circulating a petition here today to present to the Indiana Railroad Commission, asking for better service on the Lake Erie railroad.

In Venezuela there is a great demand for perfumery, even among the men, while face powder is an absolute necessity for the women on account of the climate.

Local Hall of Fame

John Madden, restaurant keeper, is a first class guitar player. He also sings for his own amusement, and although of a quiet and retiring disposition, he often makes very witty remarks.

Clint Bodine, the shoe store man, seldom retires before midnight. He is fond of amusements of all sorts, belongs to several lodges and seldom misses an opportunity to march with them and can always be counted on to go away on lodge or political excursions. He is the first fellow to wear ear muffs and the last fellow to take them off.

Will Bliss, the clothier, is an artist in window decorating and can paint as good a sign as a professional. He is fond of dancing and is considered the best two-stepper and fancy dancer in the city.

Jabez Smith, custodian at the court house, bears the unique distinction of being the most patriotic man in the county. The waving of an American flag will bring tears to his eyes. He is especially interested in arranging a gallery of Rush county's celebrities at the sheriff's office, most of them being former soldiers.

Martin Winston, retired blacksmith, is a bull dog fancier and is better acquainted with the pedigrees of prize winning show dogs than any man in the city. He formerly had a joint interest in several classy dogs with Mayor Bookwalter of Indianapolis.

THE PASSENGERS
RODE IN SAFETYNot One Killed on the Traction or Steam Railroads, Says a Bulletin.

THE BEST RECORD EVER MADE

Highly Creditable to Railroad Employees, But Their Ranks Were Thinned by Accidents.

During the last nine months no passengers, either on steam or inter-urban railroads, were killed in the State of Indiana, according to the quarterly bulletin issued Saturday, by the Indiana State Railroad Commission. This record compared with former conditions is striking. For the year ending June 30, 1906, fifty-eight persons were killed in the State. Forty-four of these persons were killed in one wreck. In the year ending June 30, 1907, fifteen persons were killed, though none was killed in the last quarter of that year.

"This showing," says the bulletin, "is creditable to the companies, to the officers and to the men."

The list of employees killed in October, November and December, 1908, however, is another story. The bulletin says regarding this:

"We turn with regret to the figures concerning accidents to employees. What a pity that men who take such good care of others can not take care of themselves. On analyzing our reports, we find that of twenty-five killed, eleven were on side tracks and in yards; three in coupling cars; three in collisions; one in coupling air hose; one by derailment; one while trying to pass between cars; one caught in a frog, and by getting off an engine and falling under it."

More than 5000 tons of hides and skins are exported annually from Siberia.

COUNTY OPTION TALK

Everything is county option today. If you can't talk a little on the subject, stay home until something else comes along.

If it ever comes to a vote in Rush county, the drys will carry the county by from 2000 to 2500.

Marion county will reap the benefit and get all the surplus change from the surrounding counties. Why don't the temperance people start the ball rolling there? Couldn't win? Why certainly, it would carry by several thousand.

When you remove the moral side of it and get down to political brass tacks it all means that we are going to lose Senator Beveridge two years hence. The same Democrats that voted the saloons out yesterday will be damning county option at the next election and will vote the Democrat ticket along with the Republicans who were never in favor of it.

If such a large number in every county is in favor of abolishing the saloon, then why not State-wide prohibition?

Don't you think that if the temperance question had been left out of the last campaign entirely that Watson would have been elected Governor by a handsome majority? There is no doubt about it; but he lost representing a righteous cause!

You know the Prohibitionists are getting all the credit from the so-called class of better people; the Republican party is getting the blame from those inclined to be a bit liberal. The Republicans are getting it in the neck from both sides and in the middle; a clear, clean case of whip-saw and double-cross.

The only temperance legislation ever put on the books in Indiana was put there by Republicans; then did you ever notice how Democrats and Prohib vote when an election comes around wherein there is a moral issue? There is something in the Bible about ungratefulness that would be applicable here.

What does the result in the four counties that had elections yesterday mean? It means that hundreds of so-called temperance loving people voted against their convictions at the last election. Worse than that, they would do it again if party politics had any place on the "yes and no" ballot.

We are going to have Sunday base ball, theaters open on Sunday, prize fighting in Indianapolis and possibly a repeal of the county option bill. Who voted for these things, or rather for the men who will make such things possible? Why, those very same honest, temperance loving people who cast a snow storm of ballots yesterday indorsing county option.

All of us admire the true blue temperance advocate, and we take our hats off to the temperance Democrat and the Prohibitionist that voted the Republican ticket in the last campaign, but to those who didn't and voted against their convictions their hypocrisy is truly abominable.

The fight George Ray of the Shelbyville Democrat made for the liquor forces in Decatur county, did not avail them much. It must be known that men are honest in their purpose that they might carry weight and influence.

The county council will meet Saturday and likely make the appropriation for the county option election and the commissioners will meet the following Monday to order the election and set a date. Then will we be in the midst of another hot campaign.

County option is wrong if the Republican party, that advanced it, is to profit thereby; but if we can get it without the Democratic party suffering and the Republicans will shoulder all the responsibility, then it is good, very good. Such is the answer in the hearts of the men who opposed the measure during the last campaign and voted a lie, only to take advantage of the situation since when a county option election came along and vote with the opposing forces.

Grant that the saloon business in its present state is a gross evil; we won't argue that. Now, the Republicans offered a means of remedying that evil. All men irrespective of party alliances were asked to co-operate in checking it; their higher sense of morality was appealed to, and what did they do? They repudiated the issue at the polls and the Republicans lost, not only most of the State offices, but a United States Senator. Those who fought the issue at every turn of the road are now for it, body, heart and soul. But still the Republican party must bear the brunt. Why not remove the question from politics altogether if men who favor it will not cast their ballots according to their sentiments? Both parties should get together and solve the problem, for it is a problem, and solve it out of politics. There is no legitimate reason why the Republican party should forever go down to defeat for a cause, even though it is a righteous one, when the entire population is vitally interested. Under the present conditions, with men praying and wishing one way and then voting another, the Republicans will lose Senator Beveridge and both the Senate and the House of Representatives at the next election. Some will say the Republicans were not sincere and are backing up on the question; not so, the people have not been sincere, many of them are not even honest with themselves. This is no fight for the saloon business, but a fight for one of the greatest and grandest old parties that ever was in existence. When a man sees he cannot swim across the river and is going to be drowned, it is time for him to turn back and get a boat.

NOVEL PLAN OF ENTERTAINING

Miss Luedith Ward entertained the N. G. O. club and a number of other friends at the home of her sister, Mrs. E. E. Hungerford, who lives southwest of this city last Monday afternoon, with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Myrtie Hungerford, who is soon to be married.

The bride-to-be engaged in a game of fortune telling in which each in turn was blindfolded and asked to pin an arrow onto a large heart, suspended in the doorway. When it came Miss Hungerford's turn she was blindfolded and then the curtain behind the heart was drawn away and when the blindfold was removed she found herself standing in front of a table loaded with gifts and a shower of rice coming from above.

As Miss Hungerford did not know this was planned for a shower, of course she was much surprised, but soon recovered and was asked to untie the parcels and read the names.

Refreshments of pineapple sherbet and bride's cake were served. The guests were Mrs. Henry Hungerford, Mrs. H. B. Ward, Mrs. J. D. Thompson, Mrs. Roert Whaley, Mrs. Alva Hungerford, Mrs. Grant Miller, Mrs. Enos, and the Misses Edith Enos, Mate Whaley, Edna Farlow, Effie Hall, Dessie Watkins, Margaret Innis, Myrtle Bell, and Opal Selby, and Mrs. Wm. Billings, Mrs. Rozeltha Wagoner, Harold Wagoner, Herbert Hungerford and Miss Myrtie Hungerford.

WIDOW OF GEN.
P. A. HACKLEMANWas Postmistress in the Local Postoffice When Money Order System Was Established.

REGISTERS ARE INTERESTING

Names of Pioneers of Rush County
Appear Among the List—Few Living Today.

One can not keep from growing reminiscent while looking over the first money order registers in the local postoffice. Some of the names of the old pioneers appear on the role in their own hand writing—names of old residents who have long since departed from this world to the great beyond and who are only remembered by their good deeds while on earth. Names of mothers, fathers, uncles, aunts, grandfathers, grandmothers, and numerous other relatives of people living today, may be seen on the back. And among the list may be found many people who are living today.

Prominent among the number who were the first to send out money orders, appears the name of Mrs. Sarah Hackleman, widow of Gen. Pleasant A. Hackleman, who was the only Indiana General that fell in battle during the Civil war. Mrs. Hackleman was postmistress for a number of years and held the office until she had to resign on account of old age. All of the registers of the first money orders were written by Mrs. Hackleman, as she had charge of the office when the money order system was established.

The money order system was established in the United States November 1, 1864. Rushville was only a small town at that time, but she was not long in taking up the new system, which went into effect here on September 12, 1867, only three years after it was installed by Uncle Sam. Since that time over one hundred thousand orders have been issued from the local postoffice.

But the system of today does not much resemble the one used then, although the one first used here may be found in smaller towns today. At that time no more than fifty dollars could be sent in one order while now as high as one hundred dollars may be sent. In many instances the register shows where one party had sent several orders of fifty dollars each to the same man. This was before the advantages of the modern banking system were to be had.

The first money order issued was sent on September 12, 1867, by George W. Hill to Julia Hill in Cincinnati. The first one paid at this office was sent by W. B. Goodwin of Jeffersonville, Ind., to J. L. Parsons. Out of the first twenty-nine issued here, twenty-five of them were sent to William J. Gibson in Indianapolis. It is thought that they were payments for a subscription to the Indianapolis Sentinel, which was at that time the largest paper in the State and several old pioneers, who are living today, will swear under oath that the parties who sent the orders to the same were all believers in the Democratic faith.

WOMEN TAKE ACTIVE PART

"Drys" Carry Four More Counties In Indiana.

WETS PLAYED LISTLESS HAND

Decatur, Hamilton, Putnam and Tipton Counties Vote Dry by Conclusive Majorities, in the Latter County the "Wets" Not Even Having Representation on Election Boards—Brewers Are Now Devoting Their Attention to a Measure Which Will Be Introduced in Legislature This Week to Repeal Local Option Law.

Indianapolis, Jan. 27.—Decatur, Hamilton, Putnam and Tipton counties were added to the "dry" column in Indiana by elections held Tuesday under the county local option law. The anti-saloon forces won by large majorities. In Tipton county the "wets" did not take sufficient interest to appoint members of the election boards.

In Decatur, Putnam and Hamilton the contest was spirited, but the "liberal" element and the saloon keepers spent very little money. It is said here that the brewers did not take a hand in any of the contests, as they are devoting their efforts to having the law modified by the legislature.

The elections will put sixty-five saloons out of business within the next year. Tipton county has three, Decatur thirty-three, Hamilton twenty-two and Putnam eight. The loss in Hamilton and Decatur is a severe blow to the liquor dealers. In Putnam only two wards at Greencastle have saloons. The size of the vote was surprising. The time for holding the elections was advantageous to the Anti-Saloon League, as the farmers are not working and most of them voted. The cities went "dry," but not by a wide margin. The "dry" majority in Tipton was 1,581; Putnam, 1,564; Hamilton, 2,298; Decatur, 1,708.

Women Active at Polls.

The women took an important part in the elections. They served meals for the election boards and helped to get out the vote.

Within the next forty-eight hours a bill introduced by Representative Kleckner to repeal the county local option law and to limit the saloons to one for each 500 population and to provide severe penalties for violation of the statutes will be reported for passage in the house. The house committee having charge of the bill will hold a meeting tonight.

The Kleckner bill is regarded as a compromise offered by the liquor interests, who are said to be willing to stand for limitation of the saloons to the residence districts and for other penalties.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE

Bill for Governor's House Given Favorable Report.

Indianapolis, Jan. 27.—The senate committee on city of Indianapolis reported today for passage Senator Cox's bill providing for the erection of a governor's mansion by the state. Cox asked for an appropriation of $150,000. Governor Hanly recommended $75,000 and Governor Marshall said that the state ought not to build a costly house because the average governor could not keep it up. The committee determined to report in favor of an appropriation of $60,000, which would be used in buying ground and building the house. It is expected, however, that the appropriation will be cut down if the bill has a chance to get through.

The house Democrats voted down Representative Furnas's resolution to provide for printing of 20,000 copies of the state fish and game commissioner's report. By doing so they say they saved the state $10,000. The senate committee on county and township business last night heard arguments for and against the Bland bill providing for uniform system of accounting in public offices. All but two members, Senators Benz and Ranke, Democrats, signed a report favoring its passage. The house Republicans caused again yesterday afternoon and decided to oppose Governor Marshall's election purification bill on the ground that it is unconstitutional.

Charging That William Nelson Cromwell and Others Have Entered Upon a Scheme for the Spoilation of Little Republic, Illinois Congressman Creates a Sensation in the House—Obaldia's Recent Election and Incidents Leading Up Thereto Dealt With in a Way to Bring in Name of President Elect Taft.

Washington, Jan. 27.—A sensational and bitter attack on William Nelson Cromwell and President Obaldia of Panama and others by Mr. Rainey of Illinois was made in the house of representatives. The postoffice appropriation bill was under consideration, but Mr. Rainey spoke under license of general debate, and he was unsparing in his charges of corruption and fraud against the persons named.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Advice Against the Use of Hard Purgatives and Physics.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "are your bowels regular?" He knows that ninety-eight per cent. of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system with noxious gases and waste matter which naturally accumulates and which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salts, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal structure which weakens the whole system, and at best only produces temporary relief. The repeated use of such treatments cause chronic irritation of the stomach and bowels, hardens their tissues, deadens their nerves, stiffens their muscles and generally brings about an injurious habit which sometimes has fatal results.

We have positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of its great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when it fails to produce entire satisfaction. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies. We urge you to try them at our entire risk.

Rexall Orderlies are very pleasant to take, they act quietly and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoe or other annoying effect, and they may be taken at any time without inconvenience.

Rexall Orderlies overcome the drugging habit and cure constipation and all similar ailments, whether acute or chronic. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Price, 36 tablets, 25c., and 12 tablets, 10c. Lytle's Drug store, Third and Main Streets.

United States." Representative Rainey directed the searchlight of publicity upon affairs in the canal zone. "In their efforts in this direction," he continued, "they have had so far the complete co-operation and active assistance of the present administration and of the next president of the United States."

Mr. Rainey traced the history of the proposed canal 400 years back and warned "that we have already started in the direction of the rocks upon which the French companies were wrecked." Referring to the government's libel suit against the New York World, and the grand jury investigations now in progress in this city and in New York, Mr. Rainey said:

"If we are to carry this project through to a successful conclusion, we must avoid graft. It is not the part of wise statesmanship to dispose of resolutions asking for an investigation of any phase of the canal question with the sweeping and absolutely unsupported official declaration that there is nothing to investigate. It is not the part of sound statesmanship and true patriotism to attempt to revive the obsolete common law of 200 years ago and to employ all the tremendous agencies of the government attempting to crush newspapers which have had the courage to call attention to a questionable transaction in connection with the canal."

Cromwell Bitterly Arraigned.

Mr. Rainey was particularly bitter in his denunciation of Mr. Cromwell, general counsel for the New French Panama Canal company and counsel and a director of the Panama railroad, which is owned by the United States government. He charged that "through the manipulation of Mr. Cromwell, the French Canal company was permitted to steal from the United States government three or four million dollars," and that after he "had become an officer in fact of the United States, he became a party to an attempt to collect from the United States a fraudulent claim on the part of the canal company of $2,200,000."

He also was unsparing in his attack upon Don Jose Domingo De Obaldia, president of Panama, who, he said represented "as no other Spanish-American statesman in his generation all that is corrupt in Spanish-American politics."

"Without Obaldia," he stated, "Cromwell's career would have been impossible. Without Cromwell, Obaldia would have been impossible."

Charges Taft With Collusion.

Against President Elect Taft, now enroute to the canal zone, Mr. Rainey directed the accusation that on the occasion of his last trip to Panama in May, "he did nothing on the isthmus except to openly push the candidacy of Obaldia for the presidency."

He asserted that a very thinly veiled threat to seize the republic if Obaldia was not elected was contained in a letter written by Mr. Taft to the then President Amador, and that to prevent this Ariss, Obaldia's opponent, withdrew.

"A year or two after the independence of Panama," continued Mr. Rainey, "the officials of the little republic commenced to absorb ideas of patriotism peculiarly distasteful to Mr. Cromwell. Mr. Cromwell determined to displace Dr. Amador and the other leaders of the constitutional party of Panama and put in as president some more pliant personage, less devoted to high ideals, and of course, in such an emergency as that, his attention was directed to his old friend and ally, Obaldia. He was a man after Cromwell's own heart. So it was determined that Obaldia was to become president of Panama. Obaldia and his friends had developed certain methods for despoiling and robbing the little country, and they did not propose to be interrupted in any way by the awakened public patriotism and honesty of Dr. Amador and his friends.

"Subsequently," he said, "Obaldia's opponent withdrew on account of the interference of Secretary Taft in the elections," and Obaldia was elected. In President Amador's farewell message to the general assembly, said Mr. Rainey, he directly charged Mr. Taft with forcing the election of Obaldia.

"Infamous Railroad Proposition."

"The plan of Mr. Cromwell and his associates," he declared, was to "absolutely appropriate to their own use the revenues of the republic and to steal the forests and public lands. The necessity for Mr. Taft's interference and for the election of Obaldia becomes now as plain as day."

Mr. Rainey referred to the fact that there was pending and about to be adopted in the general assembly of Panama, "the most infamous railroad proposition ever submitted to any government," by which Randolph G. Ward of New York was to be largely the beneficiary. He called attention to what he said was the failure of Arnold Shanklin, the American consul general at Panama, to make a report requested by the bureau of forestry last year because "he evidently feels he owes his position there to William Nelson Cromwell," and charged that certain interested parties were seeking to levy tribute upon the people in connection with these timber land frauds.

"It will be interesting to know who the gentlemen are who are attempting in this way to impoverish the republic of Panama," he said, and he mentioned William Nelson Cromwell, Roger L. Farnham, W. S. Harvey and Charles P. Taft.

INDIANA POLITICS

By Robert G. Tucker

Indianapolis, Jan. 27.—Leaving it to the senate to determine the fate of Governor Marshall's bill to reorganize the force in his office and to appoint a governor's counsel at a salary of $3,600 a year, the house Republicans permitted the Democrats to advance it to engrossment. It will be passed in the house without further opposition. Being in a hopeless minority the house Republicans decided that further opposition to the bill would be futile. Their party has a majority in the senate where the measure will be amended to suit them. It is said that the principal objection of the Republicans to the bill is the appropriation for a special counsel.

The four bills pertaining to employers' liability, introduced in the senate will be the subject of a public hearing before the judiciary A committee of the senate tomorrow night. The fourth bill on the subject, which will be known as the bill of the labor interests, was offered yesterday by Senator Beal. He introduced it for the legislative board of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. It is broader in some of its features than any of the other bills offered. The labor unions are working hard for an employers liability law.

The house set its foot upon the bills introduced by Representatives Sweetney and Askren to abolish the teachers' qualifications section of the law of 1907. The state board of education and Prof. R. J. Ale, superintendent of public instruction elect, opposed the bills on the ground that they would tear down a law that is approved by the educators of Indiana. Other bills are pending to abolish the law making it necessary for teachers to have a high school commission. There will be a public hearing on them Thursday.

Senator Grube has introduced a bill to abolish all forms of capital punishment. He declares that he introduced the bill on his own responsibility, and that he was not acting on behalf of any anti-capital punishment society or other organization of the kind. The question of capital punishment is one to which he has given considerable attention. Representative Condo of Marion tried for two sessions to put through a bill abolishing capital punishment.

PEOPLES COLUMN

Editor Republican:

T. A. F. is wrong when he says that the Republican party must stand by their colors whether in defeat or victory. The local option clause was adopted by the Republican State convention rather unwillingly but it was thought that the time was ripe for a forward step in that direction, and then Hanly forced matters to such an extent as to defeat the party.

All the temperance legislation ever enacted has been put on the statute book by the Republican party, and always at a great loss. The temperance people never give the party the support they should.

The Prohibition party which poses as a temperance party, has really lost sight of its original aims and purposes. Instead of assisting temperance movements, they work in harmony with the liquor element, and their sole and only desire seems to be to defeat the Republican party. The Democrats are never mentioned. All their ire is directed against the Republican party.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

AN OLD BIBLE.

(Milroy Press.)

The Nickelo Curio held by the U. P. ladies Friday and Saturday proved to be quite a success. When they began gathering up the old relics in the town more than twice the number anticipated were found. The collection was certainly great. It embraced many novelties from a few years to over 200 years old.

It would be impossible to go into detail and describe them all. The most ancient article was a Dutch Bible printed in Amsterdam, Holland, in 1637, 272 years ago. This belongs to Sam Laughlin.

SIGN THE PETITION!

(Connersville Courier.)

Here is the first snake story of the season with the trimmings:

The snake was black and it measured four feet in length. It was discovered last Friday by F. R. Nutty, who lives east of this city, and was promptly dispatched. Mr. Nutty was as much surprised to find this snake as you are to read about it now, but his surprise did not unnerve him to the extent of rendering his blows upon the head of the snake ineffectual.

That a snake of this size should be found at this time of the year is perhaps not so remarkable after all, since during the past few days many other signs of spring have been noticed in different parts of the country.

STORY AND A MORAL.

(Liberty Herald.)

A neighboring farmer lost a fine pig last week in a peculiar manner. One of his boys run, carrying a half-gallon molasses bucket in his hand. This he put down on the ground to do something else when the pig came along, poked his nose into the bucket, pushing his head in so far that the bucket became tight and fitted so close all around that the pig was smothered to death. While the loss to Bill Hawkins is about $15, it also teaches the moral to keep your nose out of other people's business.

BY THE WAYSIDE

It does seem pretty tough to a newspaper man who has his heart and soul in his work, and who hustles all day and night for material to write about, racks his brain for new and clever ideas that some one may find some pleasure in them, to see the fruit of his toil glanced over for five or ten minutes and then used to wrap up some soiled shirts and collars to be sent to the laundry. But he could not expect much more. Life is too short for people to stop, look and listen for everything that comes along. There should be satisfaction enough in a single glance when one considers the artists who work on a canvas for several years, only to have hundreds of people give the picture a fleeting glance as they go by and remark how natural the willow trees near the stream appear. But hopes spring eternal in the human breast and a fellow feels like he may accidentally say something someday worth remembering—that's his goal; that will be his monument.

YEUELL BORN IN DEAR OL' LONDON

Evangelist Has Had a Most Remarkable Career Since Coming to America.

KNOWS HIS GROUNDS WELL

He Led Revival at Frankfort Where 800 Converts Were Added to the Church.

Evangelist Herbert Yeuell, who begins the series of exangelistic meetings tomorrow night at the Main Street Christian church, was born in London, England. He has been in this country about fifteen years, so that he is now a thorough going and patriotic American. Just enough, however, of the London accent lingers in his voice to make his speech peculiarly interesting.

Yeuell held a prominent pastorate for several years in Pennsylvania so that he understands thoroughly the problems of the local minister. For ten years he has been an evangelist and has led in some of the most remarkable campaigns and the converts won under his preaching run into the thousands. Perhaps his greatest meeting was about a year ago at Frankfort, Ind., where over eight hundred persons were added to the church. This was not in a union meeting, but with only one congregation co-operating. Two years ago he made a campaign in England under the auspices of the English Evangelist Alliance.

Because of his broad evangelical preaching and his avoidance of all narrow sectarianism he has been prominent in union meetings, especially in the West, where all the congregations in the towns have been enlisted under his leadership. While not a big man physically, he is a big hearted and magnetic orator and Rushville has a rich treat in store in the opportunity to hear Yeuell in a series of meetings. There is always great interest in hearing the first message and tomorrow night those who expect to attend the services are advised to go early. Mr. Ellsworth Rogers arrived today from Atlanta. He comes to take charge of the music of the meeting.

OFFICER CHASED A RECKLESS AUTOIST

For Three Hours City Marshall Tried to Run Down an Intoxicated Man.

HE FINALLY CAME TO GRIEF

It was pitiable, but still funny. All day yesterday, City Marshal Price tried to run down a reckless auto driver, who was the central figure in several exciting escapades. But it was all in vain as the fellow was elusive and dodged in and out one street and then another like a phantom. But he finally came to grief. After the chase, extending over three hours, was becoming aggravating to the officer, the big touring car driven by the mysterious stranger, was seen to run zig-zag across Morgan street, near the terminal station and stop. Price lost no time in reaching the spot. There he found a man in an intoxicated condition sitting at the wheel. He said he was from Milroy. His supply of gasoline was out and he could not budge the machine; but there he sat, with a look on his face like he was fully confident that the machine was going to start in a short time.

A large crowd collected and whenever they would gather in front of the machine the fellow would blow his fog horn as if he was going to start. But nary a start!

Price went to a phone to call some of the fellow's friends and notify them that he was going to take the intoxicated fellow to jail, and when he got back the driver was gone. He had made a safe get-away.

It required some time to remove the machine to a garage and it is still being held by the police. About the same hour Senator Moore was busy in the State Senate introducing a bill calling for severe punishment of intoxicated drivers of motor cars.

AMUSEMENTS

Woman, lovely woman, you are certainly a peculiar commodity. If you wish to know something about it you should see "A Woman's Way," a romance of the Canadian wood, at the Grand theater tonight. After calling for assistance she turns on her rescuers and routs them. The scenes of this subject are extremely picturesque. The other subject, "Changing a Bank Note" is comic. Miss Brown will sing "Everybody Knows My Sister Sue."

"Wrongfully Accused" is the title of the subject to be shown at the Vaudeville tonight. The pictures relate to a story full of human pathos and true to life. Miss Clara Gregg will sing, "Sunbonnet Sue."

The Kramer rink will be open to skaters tonight.

Quite a large number attended the band boys' minstrels last night and the performance compared favorably with like productions of the past. The first part was well put on and Manager Al. G. Robertson deserves much credit for it. As an interlocutor Robertson was good and filled the place in an adequate manner. His son, Earl Robertson, made good and has all the ear marks of a professional. His comedy work in the first part and in the olio were above the average, especially his parody singing.

For originality and first class material put over the foot lights, well, Clifford Jarvis, captured the honors. Elgar Higgs, was good, and Barton Caldwell's part came as a surprise. He was one of the few that were really funny. Walter Richey sang a solo and pleased the audience. John Ferveda got several encores with his singing act. But the singing honors of the evening fell to Leon Maxey, whose first basso solo was immense. Of course, everybody was glad to hear Bee Murphy, the bone soloist, again; it is his last public appearance here for he declares "these bones shall not rise again." Charley Broadhead gave an intelligent interpretation of the trying part of a "chair warmer," and played well his part. His impersonations of a former well known colored man was good. The Shaekles family from Morristown were good, but their selections were ill chosen and ancient. The Hoosier Boys Quartette was good as a singing organization, but a little short on clever comedy. John Jordan hit off a few difficult steps, but could not get the right time in music for his shuffles. Leon Maxey made a mistake in trying a comedy tramp role; his fort is the legitimate and a fellow that can sing like he can is foolish to try and employ any other talent.

The last part of the minstrels was a bit crude, as is the case with nearly all home talent and amateur shows and some in the audience, without charity in their souls, saw fit to grow boisterous. The performers then made the mistake of trying

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

THE VERY HIGHEST QUALITY

A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI

By THOMAS A. WISE

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THOMAS A. WISE

The Mississippian's fighting blood was instantly aroused at such treatment of a respectable old white man by negroes. His lips tightly compressed as he hurried to the rescue. He cried sharply.

"Take your hands off that gentleman! What do you mean by touching a friend of mine?"

The negroes stepped back amazed. "Scuse me, senator, is this gent'man a friend of yours," the head porter gasped apologetically.

Langdon looked at him.

"You heard what I said," he drawled in the slow way natural to some men of the south when trouble threatens. "I'd like to have you down in Mississippi for about ten minutes."

The head porter turned quickly on his assistants and drove them away, shouting at the top of his voice:

"Get about yo' wuk. How dare yo' interfere wid a friend of de senator's? I'll teach yo' to be putting yoh nose in where it ain't got no business."

The old man, astonished at the turn of events, came forward hesitatingly to Langdon.

"I'm very much obliged to you, sir," he said. "I'm Colonel Stoneman, an old soldier."

The Mississippian stretched forth his hand.

"My name is Langdon, sir—Senator Langdon of Mississippi. I am an old soldier too."

"Delighted, senator," exclaimed the seedy looking old man, taking the offered hand gratefully.

Langdon's easy method of making friends was well illustrated as he clasped his new companion on the back. Everybody he met was the Mississippian's friend until he had proved himself the contrary. That had been his rule through life.

"Come right over, colonel; have a cigar, sir." Then, as they lighted their cigars, he inquired, "What army corps were you with, colonel?"

"I was under Grant along the Tennessee," replied the old G. A. R. man.

Familiarity with a senator was something new for him, and already he was straightening up and becoming more of a man every moment. Langdon was thoroughly interested.

"I was along the Tennessee under Beauregard," he said.

"Great generals, sir! Great generals!" exclaimed Colonel Stoneman.

"And great fighting, I reckon!" echoed the Confederate. "You remember the battle of Crawfordsville?"

The old Federal smiled with joyous recollection.

"Do I? Well, I should say I did! Were you there, senator?"

"Was I there? Why, I remember every shot that was fired. I was under Kirby, who turned your left wing." The attitude of the northern soldier

WHEEZER OR SNEEZER?

Have you Heard of Hyomei for Catarrh, Asthma and Hay Fever

If you wheeze or sneeze, hawk or spit, snuffle or blow, something is the matter with the membrane of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei.

And you need Hyomei because it will cure you of catarrhal or inflammatory conditions that exist.

It isn't a stomach medicine, or spray, or douche, but a very pleasant, healing, antiseptic balsam for the eucalyptus forests of Australia. You breathe this balsamic air through a small, hard rubber inhaler, and it reaches every nook, corner and crevice of the membrane, and promptly kills the catarrh germs.

F. B. Johnson & Co. will sell you a complete Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit for $1.00, on the moneyback plan.

"The use of Hyomei cured Mr. Cutler of catarrh in 1904. He has strongly endorsed the use of Hyomei in many instances, and we are glad to go on record regarding this marvelous catarrh cure, and endorse its use."—Mrs. A. Cutler, 201 Post Ave., Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 12, 1908.

changed instantly. He drew himself up with cold dignity. Plainly he felt that he had the honor of his army to sustain.

"Our left wing was never turned, sir!" he exclaimed with dignity.

Langdon stared at him with amazement. This was a point of view the Confederate had never heard before.

"Never turned?" he gasped. "Don't tell me that! I was there, and, besides, I've fought this battle on an average of twice a week ever since '05 down in Mississippi, and in all these years I never heard such a foolish statement."

"What rank were you, sir?" asked the Union soldier haughtily.

"I was a captain that morning," confessed the southerner.

His old enemy smiled with superiority.

"As a colonel I've probably got more accurate information," he said.

"I was a colonel that evening," came the dry retort.

"But in an inferior army. We licked you, sir!" cried Stoneman hotly.

The Mississippian drew himself up with all the dignity common to the old Confederate soldier explaining the war.

"The south was never whipped, sir. We honorably surrendered, sir. We surrendered to save the country, sir, but we were never whipped."

"Did you not run at Kenyon Hill?" taunted Stoneman.

Langdon brought down his fist in the palm of the other hand violently.

"Yes, sir; we ran at you. I ought to remember. I got my wound there. You remember that long lane?" He pulled off his hat and threw it on the floor, indicating it with one hand—"Here was the Second Alabama."

The hat of the old Federal dropped on the floor opposite the hat of the Confederate.

"And here the Eighth Illinois," exclaimed Stoneman.

Langdon excitedly seized a diminutive bellboy passing by and planted him alongside his hat.

"Stay there a moment, sonny," he cried. "You are the Fourth Virginia."

The newspaper Stoneman was carrying came down opposite the startled bellboy, who was trying not to appear frightened.

"This is the clump of cedars," he exclaimed.

Both, in their eagerness, were bending down over their improvised battle plan, their heads close together.

"And here a farmhouse beside your cedars," cried Langdon.

"That's where the rebels charged us," echoed the Union man.

Langdon brought down his fist again with emphatic gesture.

"You bet we charged you! The Third Mississippi charged you! I charged you, sir!"

Stoneman nodded.

"I remember a young fool of a Johnnie reb dashing up the hill fifty yards ahead of his men, waving his sword and yelling like a wild Indian."

The southerner straightened up.

"Well, where in thunder would you expect me to be, sir?" he exclaimed. "Behind them? I got my wound there. Laid me up for three months; like to have killed me."

Then a new idea struck him. "Why, colonel, it must have been a bullet from one of your men—from your regiment, sir!"

The old northerner pushed his fingers through his hair and shook his head apologetically.

"Why, senator, I'm afraid it was," he hesitated.

Langdon's eyes were big with the afterglow of a fighter discussing the mighty struggles of the past, those most precious of all the jewels in the treasure store of a soldier's memory.

"Why, it might have been a bullet fired by you, sir," he cried. "It might be that you were the man who almost killed me. Why, confound you, sir, I'm glad to meet you!"

Each old veteran of tragic days gone by had quite unconsciously awakened a responsive chord in the heart of the other. A senator and a penniless old "down and outer" are very much the same in the human scale that actually chortling in the pure ecstasy of comradeship, now serious, again laughing, when on the scene appeared Bud Haines, the correspondent, who had returned to interview the new senator from Mississippi.

"Great heavens!" ejaculated the newspaper man. "A senator, a United States senator, hugging a broken down old 'has been'? What is the world coming to?" Haines suddenly paused. "I wonder if it can be a pose—merely for effect. It's getting harder every day to tell what's genuine and what isn't in this town."

CHAPTER VII.

LANGDON LEARNS OF THINGS UNPLEASANT.

HAINES quickly walked over and touched the southerner on the arm.

"Well, my boy, what can I do for you?" asked the new senator, turning with a pleasant smile.

"My name is Haines. Senator Stevens was to speak to you about me. I'm the first of the newspaper correspondents come to interview you."

Langdon's familiar smile broadened. "Well, you don't look as though you'd bite. Reckon I can stand for it. Is it very painful?"

"I hope it won't be, senator," Haines said, feeling instinctively that he was going to like this big, hearty citizen.

"All right, Mr. Haines, just as soon as I've said goodby to my old friend, Colonel Stoneman, I'll be with you."

And to his continued amazement Haines saw the senator walk away with the old Union colonel, slap him on the back, cheer him up and finally bid him goodby after extending a cordial invitation to come around to dinner, meet his daughters and talk over old times.

The antiquated Federal soldier marched away more erect, more brisk, than in years, completely restored to favor in the eyes of the hotel people. Langdon turned to the reporter.

"All right, Mr. Haines; my hands are up. Do your worst. Senator Stevens spoke to me about you; said you were the smartest young newspaper man in Washington. You must come from the south."

Bud shook his head.

"No, just New York," he said.

"Well, that's a promising town," drawled the southerner. "They tell me that's the Vicksburg of the north."

"I suppose you haven't been to New York of late, senator?" suggested the newspaper man.

"Well, I started up there with General Lee once," responded Langdon reminiscently, "but we changed our minds and came back. You may have heard about that trip."

Haines admitted that he had.

"Since that time," went on Langdon, "I've confined my travels to New Orleans and Vicksburg. Ever been in New Orleans about Mardi Gras time, Mr. Haines?"

"Sorry, but I don't believe I have," confessed the reporter reluctantly.

The senator seemed surprised.

"Well, sir, you have something to live for. I'll make it my special business to personally conduct you through

PARISIAN SAGE CURES DANDRUFF

If It Don't, F. B. Johnson & Co. Will Give Your Money Back.

Yes, Parisian Sage, the most invigorating hair restorer, cures dandruff and grows hair. The women of America, who have luxuriant hair, know it does, and that is why thousands of attractive women throughout the land are regularly using it.

For years this almost marvelous grower of lustrous and beautiful hair was confined to the elite of Europe and New York City, but about two years ago it was given to a select list of druggists, and today can be obtained in any city or town in America where society women or refinement dwell.

Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair tonic in the world. It makes the hair soft, lustrous and luxuriant in a few days. It is perfumed most daintily and is not sticky or greasy. It stops falling hair, cures dandruff and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

one Mardi Gras, with a special understanding, of course, that you don't print anything in the paper. I'm a vestryman in my church, but since misfortune has come upon our state I have to be careful."

Haines searched his brain. He knew of no grave calamity that had happened recently in Mississippi.

"Misfortune?" he questioned.

Senator Langdon nodded.

"Yes, sir, the great old state of Mississippi went prohibition at the last election. I don't know how it happened. We haven't found anybody in the state that says he voted for it, but the fact is a fact. I assure you, Mr. about national politics?" continued the Mississippian. "I'm a beginner, you know, and I'm always ready to learn."

"This is a new thing—a reporter teaching a senator politics," laughed Haines.

Senator Langdon joined in the merriment.

"I reckon reporters could teach United States senators lots of things, Mr. Haines, if the senators had sense enough to go to school. Now, I come up here on a platform the chief principle of which is the naval base for the gulf. Now, how are we going to put that through? My state wants it."

"You're probably sure it will be a wonderful thing for the country and the south," suggested Haines.

"Of course."

"But why do you think most of the congressmen and senators will vote for it?"

The southerner took off his hat, leaned back and gazed across the lobby thoughtfully.

"Seems to me the benefit to the south and country would be sufficient reason, Mr. Haines," he finally replied.

The newspaper man's brain worked rapidly. Going over the entire conversation with Langdon and what he had seen of him, he was certain that the Mississippian believed what he said—that, moreover, the belief was deeply rooted. His long newspaper training had educated Haines in the ways of men, their actions and mental processes—what naturally to expect from a given set of circumstances. He felt a growing regard, an affection, for this unassuming old man before him, who did not know and probably would be slow to understand the hypocrisy, the cunning trickery of lawmakers who unmake laws.

"Sufficient reason for you, senator," Haines added. "You have not been in politics very long, have you?" he queried dryly.

A wry smile wrinkled the Mississippian's face.

"Been in long enough to learn some unpleasant things I didn't know before," He remembered Martin Sanders.

"Will you allow me to tell you a few more?" asked Haines.

Langdon inclined his head in acquiescence. "Reckon I'd better know the worst and get through with it."

"Well, then, senator, somebody from Nebraska will vote for what you want in the way of the naval base because he'll think then you'll help him demand money to dredge some muddy creek that he has an interest in. "Somebody in Pennsylvania will vote for it because he owes a grudge and wants to hurt the Philadelphia ship people."

"You'll get the Democrats because it's for the south, but if your bill was for the west coast they might fight it tooth and nail, even with the Japanese fleet cruising dangerously near."

"And the Republicans may vote for it because they see a chance to claim glory and perhaps break the solid south in the next presidential campaign. You catch the idea?"

"What!" exclaimed the astounded Langdon.

"Well, who in hades will vote for it because it's for the good of the United States?" he gasped.

"I believe you will, senator," replied Haines, with ready confidence.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruiise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

SENATOR STEPHENSON TO KNOW FATE TODAY Charges Against Him Heard In Legislature.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 27.—If United States Senator Isaac Stephenson holds the strength he exhibited yesterday in separate branches of the Wisconsin legislature he will be elected in joint assembly today to succeed himself for a full term. Senator Stephenson received 60 votes in the assembly and 12 in the senate, or a total vote of 72. In the assembly fifteen members voted blank and in the senate sixteen were counted as present but not voting. It requires 67 votes in joint assembly to elect. It was said today that several members of the assembly voted for Stephenson under pressure and that an effort would likely be made to have them withdraw their support today.

Sensations were numerous, especially in the upper branch of the legislature. Senator Huston in speaking to the joint resolution to investigate the senatorial primary, said: "Can you use the cloak of the primary to debase the electorate?" It was a matter of common knowledge that nothing but money entered into the election campaign last summer and that money won, he said. On top of Senator Huston's tirade came Senator Blaine with the filing of sixteen special charges accusing Senator Stephenson of the improper use of money in the primary, naming the sum as in excess of $106,000, and approximating $250,000. Senator Blaine followed the presentation of his charges by speaking to the subject "the purchase of a United States senatorship," and he LABOR'S PLEA Labor Party of Great Britain in Convention at Portsmouth Today.

Portsmouth, England, Jan. 27.—The ninth annual meeting of the Labor party of Great Britain, which assembled here today, will discuss matters of importance to the working people of this country and to those in other lands who are interested in measures looking to their advancement. The Labor party has thirty-one representatives in parliament, and it was largely due to their efforts that the old age pension law, which went into effect Jan. 1, was enacted.

Among the proposals to be discussed at the meeting or convention, as it would be called in the United States, is one fixing the old age pension limit at fifty-five years and granting pensions to physically incapacitated workers at the age of thirty. To provide the necessary funds it is proposed that an income tax of 2 shillings in the pound be levied on incomes of £20,000, 3 shillings on incomes of £30,000 and corresponding rates up to £200,000, beyond which all incomes shall be confiscated to the state.

James R. MacDonald, member of parliament for Leicester, the secretary of the Labor party, will submit resolutions including demands for the special taxation of state and legacy duties and a substantial beginning of the taxation of land values. Other resolutions will demand state insurance for workmen, the maintenance of school children, a universal seven hour day, the nationalization of land, railways, mines and hospitals, a minimum universal wage of 30 shillings a week and a universal adult franchise for males and females.

HOPKINS HOSTS HEAVY HEARTED

Their Leader Mourns Loss of Five Votes.

FOND HOPES DASHED TO EARTH

Working Under a Full Head of Steam
Since Last Thursday, the Hopkins Forces Hoped to Increase the Vote of Their Leader, but at the End of Four Ballots Were Five Votes Worse Off Than Before—Speaker Shurtleff Demonstrates the Grip He Has on the Illinois Senatorial Situation.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—Another day's balloting failed to break the senatorial deadlock. With rumors filling the air of possible things that were likely to occur in the house balloting, the joint session began under a tension of uncertainty. At the outset of proceedings Speaker Shurtleff demonstrated the grip he has upon the situation. For several minutes the importance of the speaker's announcement that the clerk of the house will call the roll of house members first did not occur to the members and spectators who are not in the confidence of the house organization. Throughout the balloting last week the roll of the senate was called first, and when the results had been announced the calling of the roll of the house proceeded. By changing the order of calling the roll, the speaker made it impossible for a number of things to occur that had been rumored throughout the preceding day, chief of which was the possibility of either fourteen or sixteen Democrats failing to vote making it possible for Senator Hopkins to claim an election upon a majority vote cast. By calling the house roll first the possibility of two or three Democrats voting for Mr. Hopkins toward the end of the roll, provided the leading candidate was within so close a number of a majority, also was removed.

New Candidates Appear.
With the vote being taken first in the house the senate stands as a saving clause against any unexpected slip and probably could be used to break the necessary quorum.

The names of three new candidates, who have not heretofore been mentioned, were cast into the arena during the day's balloting. Two admiring Democrats voted for Free P. Morris of Watseka. Outside of this break the Democrats were united through the five ballots upon their party candidate, Lawrence B. Stringer. On the twelfth ballot taken last Thursday, the minority split up and gave sixteen votes to Lee C. Bell Browne, the minority leader. On the thirteenth ballot which was taken yesterday the Democrats came together again giving Stringer seven-four votes.

The other two new candidates who made their appearance were Congressman Charles S. Wharton and Robert T. Lincoln, both of Chicago. Senator Henson of Decatur voted for Mr. Lincoln upon the fifteenth roll call. Representative Kowaski voted for Congressman Wharton upon the fifteenth and sixteenth roll calls. The entrance of three new names is not taken as indicative of any important bearing upon the situation.

Working under a full head of steam from Thursday, the Hopkins forces exerted themselves to increase the total vote for their candidate. Starting with a total vote of ninety, Hopkins finished the day with a loss of five. Foss, starting with thirteen, finished the day with seventeen votes, a gain of four.

NO RIGHT TO DO IT Senate Cannot Call on President for Private Information.

Washington, Jan. 27.—That the senate has no right to call upon President Roosevelt for information which he may have obtained from the United States Steel corporation when he commented that concern's absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company, is the opinion of the special committee on judiciary appointed to investigate the merger. The situation is proving decidedly embarrassing to the judiciary committee, but regardless of this fact, it has been decided to proceed with the inquiry and report to the senate whether the president had authority to permit the merger.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

Ed Bell, living in West Tenth street will never advertise in the Daily Republican again. He says so himself. He is not mad about it, but does not consider it good policy. Last week he was in search of a hired girl. He wrote an ad setting forth his desire and paid to have it run in the want columns for a week. "I ought to get one in that time," he said. The next day he telephoned down and asked us by all that was good and holy to take the ad out at once. Today he explained: "I would rather do the housework myself," he said, "rather than receive applicants and turn them down. I had exactly seventeen girls apply for the place. It got to be an awful bore. I talked so much that day that I had to carry a pitcher of ice water right along with me, so I would not get hoarse. The next time I want a girl I will go about it quietly and not put an ad in the paper, I'll tell you that. It's a blame nuisance, I say."
